

Jérémy has a PhD in Mathematics in the field of mathematical physics and higher algebra, with a diversified knowledge background in theoretical physics, analysis, statistics, machine learning.

He loves solving real life cross-disciplinary problems using automated algorithmic solutions requiring software development and cutting edge technologies such as quantum computing and artificial intelligence.

At QuantFi Jérémy is involved in the creation of fast and trustworthy solutions for option pricing, risk measurement and prediction using advanced technologies and mathematical theories.